Sturdy Fisherman Overhaul Victim With Boat

Captain Catiin went in swimming with a party of friends and swam out toward one of the sampans anchored in the bay. After swimming for some little time he noticed that the boat was drifting away from him in spite of his efforts to swim more rapidly. By this time Captain Catlin was some distance from shore and he tursed on his back to rest awhile before making the swim back to shore. Swept Out Across Reef

. Upon again taking his bearings he discovered that he had been carried a great distance from shore and was out across the reef that closes the entrance to the bay, . His most streamous efwere fruitless of results and he was being carried irresistibly out to sea. Realizing that he was helpless to reach shore, Captain Catlin called to his friends on shore. So far had be been swept along by the current that his voice faintly reached his party.

Among them all was consternation when they realized the officer's situation. No boat was at hand nearer than the sampans anchored several hundred yards from shore and it began to look as if it would be an impossibility to succor the distressed swimmer. For tunately a Japanese fisherman out on the point heard the captain's calls and rushed into a row boat drawn up before his cottage. Captain Catlin's frantic friends on shore were cheered by the sight of a light boat sent skimming over the water toward him. propelled by the sinewy arms of the sturdy Japanese.

In Water More Than Hour When the figuremen reached Coptain Cutlin he had been in the water nearly an hour and was over a mile from the nearest point of land. The Capwas calmly floating on his back patiently awaiting assistance. Captain Catlin told his friends when brought to shore that after he realized that his calls were heard and that help was on the way to him, he had dismissed from his mind; though he confessed that it had been anything out pleasant to feel that he was being pulled along away from land powerless to fight against the current, and with a great probability that his calls would not be heard. His nerve, however, was entirely unshaken. He dressed quietly and drove his car, filled with the party he had brought, back to Schofield The Japanese is happy in the possession of the little token of gratitude that the rescued officer slipped into his hand at parting from him.

Wants Honolulu To Adopt California Road Construction

Supervisor Robert W. Shingle with his wife and family arrived in the Great Northern yesterday after an absence of several weeks in San Francisco and the southern part of Cali-

He was impressed with the splendid concrete reads of the Golden State and joined the boosters of the board of supervisors for that style of road in Honolulu at last night's meeting which he attended. Certain mysterious telegrams which were sent him by other embers of the board were mentioned and their receipt acknowledged.

Mr. Shingle motored from San Francisco to Los Angeles and was greatly picased with the ease of travel. He stated that a trip from San Francisco could be made to most any point in California now in automobiles over the finest roads and that most of them was returned against Ricardo Cabiara, a Filipino who is already under ar-rest and held in the city jail for a crime to be proven. He is charged with having broken into the home of Mrs. Marie Riordan Palmer, in Manon valley, on the night of October 8, with intent to commit a statutory offense, 'and did then and there commit the rime of burglary in the first degree,' elucidates the indictment.

The third indictment of the day

This is a well known case, the breaking into the home of the woman in question causing much excitement at the time in the Valley of Shadows. The man, claim the authorities, recent-ly was identified by Mrs. Palmer. The ase has been worked up, by degrees, against Cabiara and the city officials claim that they have sufficient proof to convict the man they suspect.

Arraignments in all three cases in which the grand jury returned in fictiments yesterday will take place at ten o'clock this morning in Judge Ashford's court, when the pleas will be taken, if they are forthcoming.

In discharging the grand jurors ves-terday, for the time being, Judge Ashford took occasion, in addition to the usual thanks, to wish the year-old inquisitors a "Merry Christmas."

CARELMAPU SURVIVORS HAVE REACHED VICTORIA

Looking remarkably fit after their terrible experience following the wreck of the Chilean ship Carelmapu off Portland Point, the five survivors reached Victoria aboard the Canadian Pacific steamer Tees the first of the month. The survivors are Captain Fernando

Antonio Okione, seamen. A thrilling story of the battle with the elements from which the survivors

James D. Dole and Edmund A. Cen-ter, who went to California soon after Sound, and we signalled the lighthouse with flags, but got no answer. The breakers by this time were pounding C. Warren Force, who has been in the ship heavily, but the anchors stood hurge of a mining exhibit at the ex- the sea well for three hours. About noon I gave orders for the stays to be ley and Charles E. Stone, sons of Cal cut away with a view to letting the E. Stone, general traffic manager of the masts and top hamper carry away, Great Northern Pacific line, and C. H., when I saw a steamer which proved Jenks, mother of C. O. Jenks, vice to be the Princess Maquinna standing president and general manager, and his toward us out from the entrance of mather in law, Mrs. E. E. McDonald, of Clayoquot Sound, I immediately stopped Bemiji Minnesota, arrived. Of their the men cutting away the gear and party is Mrs. W. G. Downing of Los went forward to put stops on the anchor chains. At the same time I told Stander and Redevers Waldron, sons the mate to swing out No. 1 lifeboat
